Israel, Jordan Exchange Fire In Fiercest Battle Since June

Israeli jet fighter-bombers roared along the Jordan River truce line, bombing and strafing Jordanian positions for seven hours Thursday night, before a cease-fire ended the fiercest fighting in the Middle East since the six-day war in June. Koll Israel, the Tel Aviv radio, said fighting stopped after Jordan requested a cease-fire at 11 p.m.

A Jordanian military spokesman announced later that Israel.

li firing halted at 11:20 p.m.

At the fighting's height, an Israeli spokesman said: "Both sides are using everything they have."

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan later told the nation in a broadcast he hoped the fighting would "teach Jordan that a cease-fire is a cease-fire and it applies to both Israel and Jordan."

Dayan Thursday cancelled a scheduled trip to the United States because of the outbreak.

Combat spread over a 60-mile area from the Sea of Galilee south to Jericho. The ancient biblical city, spared during the June war, came under Jordanian fire at nightfall, a Tel Aviv communique reported.

Nearly seven hours after Israel called in its French-made jets, Associated Press newsmen in Beisan Valley near the Sea of Galilee reported the planes still were dropping flares and strafing targets.

Dayan and Chief of Staff Maj. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev were caught on an inspection trip to the Gesser kibbutz in the area during the shelling, but scrambled for cover and were not injured, sources said.

Jordan claimed its anti-aircraft batteries shot down six Israeli jets, but the Air Force command in Tel Aviv denied this.

There was no estimate of Jordanian casualties in the nearly 12 hours of fighting, but state radio in Amman issued an urgent appeal for blood donations for "wounded brothers," Israeli spokesmen said four Israeli soldiers and one civilian were wounded.

The Jordanians accused the Israelis of shelling populated areas. A communique said Israeli artillery units blasted the Karamah refugee camp while jets dropped flares and phosphorous bombs.

A series of clashes during the week preceded Thursday's full-scale battles, Israel claims the root of the flareups is the Arab El Fatah terrorist organization and says Jordan aids its men, with equipment, arms and assistance in infiltrating into the occupied west bank of the Jordan River.

Each side blamed the other for starting the clash.

Vance Reports to LBJ; Has 'Renewed Confidence'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special envoy Cyrus Vance reported to President Johnson Thursday night on his special mission to South Korea and declared he has "renewed confidence of the solidarity of our alliance."

After a session of about one hour at the White House with Johnson and top presidential advisers, Vance met newsmen.

"I found my discussions with President Chung-Hee Park, the prime minister and other cabinet officials were good and very useful and they were carried out in a cordial and friendly atmosphere," Vance said.

Vance said there are no secret agreements with South Korea and no understandings beyond the language of a joint communique issued by Park and himself.

The communique noted that extraordinary measures were being taken to strengthen South Korean and American forces so as to make them ready to deal with any contingency which might arise.

Vance acknowledged that some "differing views among different individuals" existed on South Korea's desire for instant retaliation to any further attacks from North Korea.

The South Korean government reportedly asked the United States to revise the existing security treaty to make instant retaliation possible. Under the treaty as it now stands both countries agree to meet the common danger in accordance with their constitutional processes.

Vance was asked if he had reached a meeting of the minds with Korean leaders.

"I felt the exchange was very useful and a good understanding was gained with respect to their views and ours," he said.

He said he would "not want to prognosticate what the future may hold" in relations between North and South Korea.

He did not join in discussions at Panmunjom for the release of the 82 surviving crew members of the intelligence ship Pueblo.

His White House meeting of close to an hour with the President was attended by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, defense secretary-designate Clark Clifford, Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, former U.S. 8th Army commander in Korea, presidential adviser Walt Rostow, and John Walsh, career diplomat who accompanied Vance on his earlier troubleshooting mission to Greece and Turkey on the Cyprus affair.

County Will Seek Bids To Raze Properties

The Warren County Commissioners Thursday morning put on two of their official hats in a brief business session.

As commissioners of the Rouse Estate and after consultation with Warren Housing, Inc., Chairman Dr. David K. Rice, Blain M. Mead and Thomas J. Connelly voted to ask for bids to raze properties at 402, 404 and 406 Water st.

The properties in question will apparently be turned over to Warren Housing for a proposed low cost housing project for the aged although the legal means for such a transaction has not yet been determined.

Thursday's action resulted when Stuart Winerler, borough code enforcement officer and Edward McKendrick, local health officer, advised the commissioners of complaints from residents in the area about the condition of the houses.

County solicitor William Mervine will draw specifications for the demolition project.

The commissioners unanimously reappointed the following members of Warren Housing, Inc., John Hanna Jr., 508 Conewago ave.; Walter Bergler, 403 Hill st.; Captain Albert P. Carter of the Salvation Army and Gust Peterson, 807 Conewago ave.

Walter Kibbey, 1213 Fifth ave. ext., Warren was named to the Soil Conservation and Water Resource District board.

Payment of current bills in the amount of $5,394.59 was also approved.

The question was raised concerning the possibility of commissioners purchasing a list of persons filing federal income tax returns for the purpose of checking personal property taxables.

Personal property taxables were to be filed Thursday and the commissioners will investigate as to whether the returns are proportionate with stock market activities. If the comparison is not equal, they stated, the federal income tax roles as an avenue of increased income for the county will probably be considered. At the present time, Dr. Rice, said, the matter has been dropped.

The commissioners said Irving Hershey, of the National Child Welfare League of America, is in Warren conducting a survey of the Hoffman Children's Home as to its physical plant and population the next several years. All phases of the home's operation are being investigated by the professional to determine what moves the commissioners as Trustees of the Nancy L. Hoffman Fund will make.

The county board is currently working on the 1968 budget.

Marines Close In On North Viet Holdouts in Hue

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and Vietnamese marines—after edging 200 yards Thursday through rubble of a land, sea and air bombardment—sought Friday to tighten the noose around 800 North Vietnamese holding part of Hue's once-majestic Citadel for the 17th day.

Artillery, jet fighters and Navy guns laid down a curtain of explosions before the advancing allies Thursday. But they reported progress was "very slow" toward their immediate objective, 500 yards away in the southeast corner of the 19th century fortress 400 miles north of Saigon.

To the northwest, B52 bombers continued raids to hold off an expected enemy attack on Khe Sanh, the allied stronghold of the northern frontier. A U.S. Marine spokesman said a heavy mortar barrage Thursday killed 12 Marines and wounded 107. Saigon, meanwhile, continued its mop-up drive against an estimated 200 guerrillas still in the capital.

Answering the allied bombardment in Hue the North Vietnamese lobbed mortars Thursday at the Citadel's small airstrip, which government troops had recaptured last week. A government spokesman said the mortars caused no damage.

No casualty reports were available for the U.S. Marines who have been fighting for control of the Citadel's eastern wall. The Citadel makes up most of the north side of Hue.

Some 1,000 U.S. Marines were driving south along the east wall to seal off any escape.

Swiss Try to Mediate
In Vietnamese War

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Switzerland, acting on its own initiative, has dispatched a diplomat to Hanoi in an attempt to mediate in the Vietnam war, reliable sources said Thursday.

They identified him as Oscar Rossetti, the Swiss ambassador to Peking, and said he was instructed to tell North Vietnam that Switzerland is ready and willing to lend its good offices to mediation.

The new attempt was made despite U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's apparent lack of progress in a peace mission that took him to India, the Soviet Union, London and Paris.

After meeting with a North Vietnamese diplomat in Paris Wednesday, Thant was convinced that the positions of the United States and North Vietnam were too far apart to hope for any early peace conference.

British sources said Mai Van Bo, head of Hanoi's delegation in Paris, told Thant that North Vietnam was standing firm in rejecting President Johnson's terms and that talks would begin "at an appropriate time" after the United States unconditionally stops bombing North Vietnam.

Swiss sources said that Rossetti's trip to Hanoi was entirely on Swiss initiative and that he carried no message from U.S. authorities. Diplomatic sources stressed that a Swiss mediation attempt in Vietnam would parallel the successful mediation by the Swiss that ended the French-Algerian conflict.

The role played by Switzerland in the French war against the Algerian revolutionaries was to mediate rather than to act as a messenger between the two sides.

British Report North Vietnam Firm in Rejecting US Terms

LONDON (AP) — Hanoi's top diplomat in Europe told U.N. Secretary-General U Thant in Paris that North Vietnam is standing firm in rejecting President Johnson's terms for peace talks, British sources said Thursday night.

Word of this development reached the British government from Paris where Thant met Wednesday with Mai Van Bo, head of North Vietnam's delegation in France.

Thant flew back to his New York headquarters after a swing through New Delhi, Moscow, London and Paris where he has been pursuing his quest for a Vietnam peace conference.

Bo relayed to Thant the Hanoi government's message—which replied to a questionnaire submitted last week by the secretary-general through a North Vietnamese diplomat in New Delhi.

The substance of the reply, reported by the sources, was: Peace talks with the Americans will begin "at an appropriate time" after the United States unconditionally stops bombing North Vietnam.

This response hardly surprised the British. But it seems to have left Prime Minister Harold Wilson as convinced as ever that "only a very narrow gap" separates Washington and Hanoi from meeting around a peace table.

Wilson reaffirmed this view Thursday night to Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Smirnovsky. He also gave the envoy a general outline of his talks with President Johnson in Washington last week.

This was in line with a general agreement with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to keep in close touch over all aspects of the war situation.

According to aides Wilson sees "only a very narrow gap" between Washington and Hanoi because:

—Johnson proclaimed his readiness at San Antonio, Tex., last September and several times since to order an American bombing halt in North Vietnam.

The President has stipulated three provisions which, Wilson

Car Skids into Path
Of Bus; Two Killed

CORRY, Pa. (AP) — A car skidded into the path of a school bus on a snow-covered highway Thursday, killing two New York State women in the car.

State police said the car skidded into the opposite lane on Pennsylvania 6 four miles west of Corry and was hit broadside by the bus enroute to pick up pupils from the Corry Area School Jointure.

Troopers said Jane H. Allen, 75, of Rt. 2, Clymer, N.Y. was killed instantly. The driver, Mary E. Bliss of the same address, died in an ambulance.

argues, Hanoi can meet easily if it wishes. Peace talks must follow the standoff promptly. They must be productive or meaningful, in other words leading to peace, Hanoi should undertake, informally if necessary, not to beef up its power in South Vietnam.

—President Ho Chi Minh through spokesmen has proclaimed Hanoi will go to the peace table after the Americans quit their bombing. But he is regarding Johnson's three provisions as conditions which are unacceptable even though they can be met easily. For example: the North Vietnamese have said peace talks will be held between two and four weeks after a bombing halt. This seems likely to meet Johnson's first requirement.

Not all of the prime minister's advisers share his view that these are readily soluble problems.

Off-target B52s Kill More Than 40 Near Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — More than 40 persons were killed Tuesday when high-flying B52 Stratofortresses mistakenly dropped 50 tons of bombs outside a target zone only 10.5 miles north of Saigon, the U.S. Air Force announced Thursday.

The spokesman said 42 to 44 persons died and from 57 to 59 were injured in the raid that was the closest to Saigon in the war. It was the first such error attributed to the B52s that usually execute their high-altitude saturation raids in less populous areas.

The Air Force did not indicate who the killed and injured were. Other reports said women and children were among them and it was presumed the casualties included civilians.

The target was a suspected concentration of Communist troops alongside the Saigon River. Clearance for the raid had come from the Vietnamese commander of the Saigon military district and the deputy senior American adviser for the 3rd Corps area.

The Air Force said five of the eight-engine jet bombers conducted the afternoon raid and about half of their 750-pound bombs fell outside target area but "well within the one kilometer safety zone designated each time a target is approved." A kilometer is about three-fifths of a mile.

In addition to the one kilometer safety zone, Air Force sources said each B52 target must be surrounded by a three kilometer area cleared of all friendly forces.

The target restrictions apparently were not observed in the strike. The district town of Lai Thieu was within three kilometers of the southern edge of the target area and several government posts were within the one kilometer safety zone.

The Air Force spokesman said the entire target area had been declared free of friendly forces and civilians before the bombing.

The target area was adjacent to what the Air Force described as a "rapid access route to Tan Son Nhut airfield and Saigon, on which there had been heavy fighting in the past two days."

Civilian Worker in Viet Is Killed by Sniper

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A former Lancaster police chief who volunteered to work as a civilian in Vietnam as a personal protest against antiwar demonstrators has been killed by a sniper in that Asian nation.

The veteran policeman, Albert A. Farkas, 54, volunteered more than a year ago for the Saigon pool of the Agency for International Development. "I feel" he said then, "I chose it as a personal protest against the demonstrators who have criticized the government's role in Vietnam and the draft laws. I feel what we're doing there is right."

Farkas, with the Lancaster department 26 years, was its much commended chief for four years. He resigned in December, 1966, going then to Vinh Long province to help train the Vietnam federal police.

A sniper wounded him Feb. 10 during fighting around Dan Tan in the Mekong Delta, and he died in a hospital Wednesday of blood clot stemming from the wound, his relatives reported Thursday.

In a Feb. 6 letter to relatives here, Farkas wrote that his living quarters had been damaged by the Viet Cong, and that he had escaped uninjured when rifle fire tore away the canvas top of his jeep.

"It has been hectic and rough," he wrote. "It's been a rough year so far and it's not getting any better."

While he was police chief, Lancaster had the first or second lowest crime rate in the nation, according to FBI statistics. Farkas received many awards and citations, including one from FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover.

When he left Lancaster, he said, "This is a larger career opportunity. I feel honored they would pick me for it."

His mother, Mrs. Esther Farkas, and a brother, William J. Farkas, both of Erie, Pa., survive.

North Korea Will Weigh Results of Recent Talks

SEOUL (AP) — Communist North Korea will weigh carefully the results of talks between South Korean leaders and Cyrus R. Vance, President Johnson's trouble shooter. One result may be that the Communists will be far from in a hurry to release the captive USS Pueblo and her crew.

The Communists are likely to conclude that Vance's promise of "immediate consultations" between the United States and South Korea in the event of new North Korean aggressive thrusts is far short of what the Seoul government had been demanding of Washington.

Those who know the ways of the Korean Communists say that they will want to watch and wait now, to see just how much damage they have done and might yet do to U.S.-South Korean relations.

It would seem logical for the North Koreans to take part in more secret meetings with the Americans on the fate of the Pueblo. Such secret meetings—there have been five since the ship was captured—exclude the South Koreans and this has been a touchy matter in Seoul. While the anxiety of the Americans to get back their ship and men is understood by the South Koreans, the secret two-way meetings have had an abrasive effect on their nerves.

The final communique issued after Vance's talks with President Chung Hee Park and other high South Korean officials says the two countries reaffirmed a commitment "to undertake immediate consultations whenever the security of the Republic of Korea is threatened."

South Koreans have been saying that they wanted the United States to be as tough as possible in its attitude toward North Korea's harassment of the South, to threaten quick retaliation and to build up South Korea's defenses to a point where it could strike back quickly.

The communique noted that "extraordinary measures" have been and are being taken to strengthen South Korean and U.S. forces in Korea so that they will be ready to deal with any contingency. But there is no explicit promise of meeting South Korea's demands. The communique simply notes that Vance joined in recognizing a need for continuing modernization of this country's armed forces.

Vance reported just before his departure for Washington that

Why Khe Sanh?

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — Suppose you're asked: Why have American generals decided the U.S. Marines' Khe Sanh combat base can and must be held?

One answer is that it's the keystone, the anchor or the cork of allied defense positions in the frontier sector below the demilitarized zone. It's the western end of the line, barring the way to enemy flanking of vital forward outposts and cutting through to the sea.

Whatever happens there in the big fight that Gen. William C. Westmoreland expects from Hanoi divisions as the next phase of the Communists' winter-spring offensive could have a considerable bearing on the outcome of the war.

he considered his mission to Seoul a success. If it has the effect of stilling some of the criticism of the United States from its strong Asian ally, success can be claimed for the mission, at least to a limited extent.

But what has happened in the past three weeks still rankles in South Korea. In this respect, the Communist gamble in seizing the American intelligence ship Jan. 23, two days after dispatching an assassination team to Seoul assigned to kill President Park, probably will be considered in North Korea to have paid off.

American People Want to Pay For Veteran's Lost Rifle

WASHINGTON (AP) — A number of Americans who don't believe a Vietnam veteran should have to pay for a rifle he lost while on duty are sending in money to take care of it.

This was reported Thursday by Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, R-Wis., who said two days ago that the Army is trying to collect $70.21 from Ernest J. Wagner of Racine, Wis., who was honorably discharged from the Army five months ago after a year in Vietnam.

One check for $70.21 was sent to the congressman by Edward Jerousek of Oak Lawn, Ill. Schadeberg said another check for a lesser amount came from Fidel L. Gonzalez Jr., of Dallas, Tex. He said also that Radio

Veteran Mystified by Army Effort to Collect for Rifle

CORONA, Calif. (AP)—A former helicopter gunner in Vietnam said Thursday he cannot forecast the outcome of the Army's efforts to make him pay $71.20 for his missing rifle.

Ernest J. Wagner, who arrived Thursday at his brothers home, said an aide of Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, R-Wis., had told him to ignore any more letters from the Army on the matter and that Schadeberg would handle it.

Wagner, 24, who said he will look for a job in this Southern California area, said he was un-

The aim of the 5,000 or so American Leathernecks, who depend on planes for both supplies and offensive sorties in the nearby hills, would be to throw back the committed thousands of Ho Chi Minh's regulars with crippling losses.

The Red high command would hope to cut across the country to the coast and take the two northernmost provinces of South Vietnam—Quang Tri and Thua Thien.

Strategists pore over the geography, and give these reasons to the why of Khe Sanh:

—The sandbagged Khe Sanh base, flanked by hilltop outposts, is on a bluff 16 miles south of the DMZ and eight miles east of the Laotian frontier. It is through Communist-held eastern Laos that North Vietnam's meeteoeps swing around mountains that rise to 5,800 feet north of Khe Sanh.

—The Marines stand watch over Route 9, a highway from Laos. This potential invasion route links up near the coast with the north-south Route No. 1.

—East of Khe Sanh are the broad Quang Tri and Cam Lo river valleys, pointing toward the South China Sea.

—An enemy sweep down these valleys would put them behind such forward Marine outposts as Con Thien and Gio Linh. Theoretically the enemy could link up with Viet Cong and previously infiltrated North Vietnamese for efforts to expand their holdings north and south.

Less Juveniles Today Are Institutionalized

MAYVILLE, N. Y. — A report issued Thursday by Chautauque County probation director Carmelo J. Basile shows a decline over the past four years in the number of juveniles to be institutionalized.

The statistics for children's court in 1962, the report indicated, showed 80 per cent of the juveniles convicted at that time were sent to institutions. Basile noted in his 1967 annual report that eleven boys and two girls were committed to institutions with 91 per cent of the cases investigated resulting in the individual being placed on probation.

Basile said the decrease represents a significant savings to county taxpayers. He noted the present cost of keeping one male juvenile in a state training center is more than $6,700 per year.

The probation director reported that of the 100 cases the department investigated in county court only nine fell in the 16 to 18-year-old category. He said youngsters from 13 to 18 were responsible for more than 70 per cent of all investigations made by the personnel of the probation department.

State Superintendent Says Demonstration Unjustified

Superintendent of Public Instruction David H. Kurtzman told Pennsylvania school teachers Thursday their plans for a state-wide demonstration in support of higher salaries was unjustified at this time.

"The overriding fact is that the governor has unequivocally announced that he would propose legislation for salary increases and the legislative leadership has indicated it will support such legislation," Dr.

Kurtzman said in a letter to

Joseph Standa, president of the 80,000 member Pennsylvania

State Education Association.

"In face of these facts, therefore, the insistence on proceeding with such action as has been proposed before the governor and the legislature have had an opportunity to demonstrate the sincerity of their announced intections would be unjustified,"

Kurtzman continued.

The PSEA's House of Delegates called for a statewide demonstration March 4 by the teachers to protest legislative inaction on a bill to raise starting salaries from $4,500 to $6,000 by 1969-70.

The teachers were instructed to walk off their jobs for the day

if their local school boards do not grant them a non-paid holiday. This would amount to a strike in defiance of the state's anti-strike law applicable to public employees.

Kurtzman repeated that he found justice in many of the teachers' demands, but added:

"I cannot conceive that two injustices make a right. To me, mass work stoppages, universal sick days and professional days are repugnant.

"The effect on the students must be taken into account. I trust that, before you proceed with this unnecessary action, you will take into account this,

our prime responsibility—this total commitment as professionals."

Open Home to Nephew Found Beaten to Death

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — A couple who opened their home to a nephew a month ago was found beaten to death Thursday and the nephew was arrested about three hours later in Virginia while applying for a marriage license.

Richard R. Lott, and his wife, Doris, 39, were beaten in their home four miles west of this Southern Tier city, assistant Dist. Atty. Donald G. Purple Jr. of Steuben County said. He said they probably were slain Wednesday.

Their nephew, Gary Higgins, 21, and Miss Barbara Nestor of Parkersburg, W. Va., were taken into custody in the Giles County clerk's office at Pearisburg, Va. The community is 40 miles west of Roanoke.

The sheriff in Pearisburg said

Scott Introduces Negro Culture Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)— A bill to establish a national commission on Negro history and culture was introduced Thursday by Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

"We are sadly lacking in a full appreciation of the achievements of Negroes in America," Scott said in a statement accompanying the introduction.

"The Negro contribution to this country is not known by many Americans," he said. "This dearth of knowledge among our multiracial society is aimed at the Negro minority."

Under Scott's bill, the proposed commission would be charged with conducting a study of proposals to research, document, compile, preserve and disseminate data on the role of the Negro in history. A similar bill has been introduced in the House.

CAB Approves Special Mohawk Airlines Fare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board gave Mohawk Airlines permission Thursday to put into effect March 1 a fare of $65 for five days of unlimited travel over the airlines' system Monday through Friday.

Also on March 1, Mohawk will reduce from $30 to $25 its "weekend unlimited" fare for unrestricted travel on Saturdays and Sundays.

Two airlines which have routes competing with those of Mohawk in the New England area—Allegheny and Trans World—complained that since the fare concept traditionally has been based on distance traveled, the new "Consecutive executive" fare of Mohawk's would establish a precedent affecting other markets and airlines.

Mohawk estimated the five-day fare would increase its annual passenger traffic by 60,000 and revenue by $3.9 million.

The board approved the new fare for an experimental period ending next June 30.

Bucktail Schools Still Deserted

RENOVO, Pa. (AP) — Classrooms of two schools of the Bucktail Area Jointure were still deserted Thursday as a strike of 42 teachers went into its third day.

A scheduled meeting of the school board Wednesday night to explore the situation was called off because of the lack of a quorum.

The board's negotiating committee met later with representatives of the striking Local 1579, AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers, but no significant progress was reported.

The walkout began Monday over a demand of the teachers for immediate pay increases.

Kodak, Xerox Cut Travel Plans

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Eastman Kodak Co. and Xerox Corp. said Thursday they had cut back European travel plans because of President Johnson's proposal for a tourist tax.

A Kodak spokesman said the firm had eliminated all business trips to Europe except those that were urgent. He also said Kodak was reviewing group travel plans, organized by the firm, for vacationing employees.

Xerox said it had cancelled a $35,000 employee vacation group tour to Europe in favor of a trip to South America. He said the amount of international travel by Xerox officials was minimal.

For the Cost of a Life

Last month Warren Borough Council was asked to consider providing police protection during school crossing hours at the intersection beside Market Street School. The council's public safety committee held a meeting on the request and recommended last Monday that nothing be done about it. They felt the present school safety patrols were adequate.

ran across Market street while the light was green and the safety patrols were on duty. The nearest car, about 30 feet north of the intersection, was able to stop in time to avoid hitting the child. But the next time may be different.

How much would it cost to pay one man to supervise this critical intersection for at most two or three hours a day? More than a child's life is worth?

Big Three Won't Bid

WASHINGTON—An upsurge in selling cars to the United States government, by Ford, General Motors and Chrysler, is scheduled for investigation by Sen. Abe Ribicoff, D-Conn., today (Feb. 16).

The undeclared but nevertheless effective boycott was revealed two weeks ago, in Ribicoff's investigation of new automobile safety standards and how much they cost the automobile buyer. Much to the amazement of Senators, the General Services Administration, big buying and housekeeping agency for Uncle Sam, revealed that neither General Motors, Ford nor Chrysler had submitted bids on any government cars last year.

Had it not been for American Motors, which did bid, the United States government would not have been able to buy cars for either its critical or routine operations. Reason the Big Three didn't want to bid for what hitherto has been considered the juiciest sale in the United States was that they didn't want to disclose detailed facts regarding safety which General Services now asks for. By not bidding, the Big Three wanted to force GSA to drop its safety standard demands. This has already been accomplished to some degree.

"Do you mean the United States government?" asked Sen. Ribicoff.

"Yes, sir," replied Heinz Abersfelder, chief of GSA's Federal Supply Service.

Sen. Ribicoff has introduced a bill requiring automobile companies to itemize the cost of new safety features on cars they sell to the government. Last fall the automobile companies upped prices and attributed the increase to new safety additions required by the government, Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., blasting the auto industry, pointed out that it had charged $23 to $33 for a pair of shoulder harnesses which cost the manufacturer only $3.

Sen. Ribicoff, also critical, and backed by Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y., now proposes to find out exactly how much safety additions to cars did cost and how much should be passed on to the auto buyer.

Already, General Services has bowed to the big three's pressure and modified its safety standards program. GSA also opposes the Ribicoff bill for fear the Big Three will continue their ban on selling cars to the government. But the auto industry is not satisfied. It wants GSA to go further and drop its tire safety standards, which are much tougher than the weak Department of Transportation standards for tires. The Senators are interested in the fact that the Big Three motor moguls, while refusing to bid on civilian vehicles, are waging war on government military contracts. They also receive handsome contributions of cash for research and development. General Motors had defense contracts in 1967 totaling $625 million; Ford got $87.4 million; Chrysler $164.7 million.

In addition the three got outright gifts for research totaling $53,166,000 for General Motors, $2,989,000 for Chrysler, and $5,099,000 for Ford. They can keep many of the patents developed from this research.

Finally, the Senators are interested in anti-trust angles which may be involved.

General Motors appears to lead a charmed life as far as antitrust prosecution is concerned. The big case brought against it in the Truman administration has now been compromised.

The criminal aspects were dropped and the civil phase was kicked off with a consent decree. More recently, antitrust lawyers have prepared a tentative case against GM for monopolistic practices in its relations with dealers. Some antitrust attorneys urge the Justice Department to force GM to sell Chevrolet, on the ground that Chevys dominate the market. So far no final decision has been made by Attorney General Ramsey Clark as to whether such a suit will be brought.

However, the industry obviously is worried. For the hearing room two weeks ago was jammed with auto and tire industry lobbyists who fear the consequences of Ribicoff's investigation.

Ernest Barcella of General Motors and Wayne Smith of Ford are hopeful that Sen. Jack Javits, R-N.Y., will help defend the industry at today's session. They are not sure of Javits. But they know they can count on Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo.

At the last hearing they had the Automobile Manufacturers Association, headed by LBJ's old Texas friend, ex-Ambassador Thomas Mann, prepare neatly typed questions for Sen. Hansen. Hansen performed beautifully, asked the right questions of the leading witnesses, Sen. Walter Mondale and Lowell Bridwell of the Transportation Department.

Mondale has been a vigorous critic of the padded prices charged by the industry for safety devices. He agrees with Ribicoff that the industry is trying to make safety devices unpopular with the public by making them expensive. Bridwell, who aspires to be governor of Ohio and is supposed to protect the public regarding auto safety, was vague and evasive. He dodged questions, refused to say anything about the auto industry. He even refused to say that the cost of $23 to $33 to the public for one pair of shoulder harnesses was excessive. He claimed he was not equipped to answer the questions.

Last September Gardner Ackley, then president of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, blasted the auto industry's price increases as excessive and unnecessary. This set the official policy for the Johnson administration. Despite this, Bridwell, a member of the administration, welched about supporting it.

Rousing the Teaching Troops

HARRISBURG -- Columnist's Notebook: ROUSING THE TROOPS -- When the policy-setting House of Delegates of the Pennsylvania State Education Association met here last week and to declare a one-day holiday and demonstration on the part of Pennsylvania's school teachers March 4, if nothing else they managed to stir up something of a hornet's nest among Pennsylvania's teaching troops.

However it didn't quite develop along the lines PSEA strategists had hoped and planned. The idea had been unification of the troops behind the strike plan. It didn't work out that way. Published reports carried the delegate endorsement of the March 4 holiday, or whatever you prefer to call it, as being "unanimous".

It wasn't "unanimous" at all--inasmuch as about a fourth of the 1000 House delegates held out against the strike proposal, as it develops now, to no avail. What the PSEA action of the past week and apparently has done is divide its teacher troops into two factions--those who are convinced militancy is the answer in trying to force the Legislature to accede to teacher demands.

As for lawmakers themselves, most seem irked by the PSEA move and anything but receptive to the idea of being brow-beaten into any course of action via the strike-and-march route. As one lawmaker expressed it:

"In itself it is a tragedy. Over the years PSEA has worked diligently with legislative leaders, accomplishing most of its goals in a dignified, understanding manner. If the teachers adhere to their now-prescribed course March 4, much of this will unquestionably go down the drain. Thereafter it will be pretty much a chin-jutting affair on both sides."

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION IRONY -- Mumbles have

Heart Disease A Killer

The heart transplants are a touch of God. They ease me with wonderment. The dead girl beats on in the middle-aged man. He breathes, he eats, he speaks, he laughs. We have come a long, long way. But there is another question. Why did the man permit himself to verge on death before he sought help?

Bishop

What, to be precise, is cardio-vascular disease? One of every nine persons you see today have it. They look like older people. They walk straight. The limp is inside. This year, 1,200,000 of them will die. Somewhere in the human pumping system, an artery will clog, a vein in the brain will rupture, or the heart's own nourishment will be shut off. There will be a squeeze of pain and the victim will return to cool darkness from which he came.

Why? Much of it is preventable. Most of us fear cancer, but, for every person who dies of it, four will die of heart disease. Are the heart patients less dead than the cancer victims? Or do we fear cancer more because it is deadlier, protracted and often irrevocable?

Heart disease is a sneak. It walks on tiptoe. It is a permanent resident in the body before the victim suspects. There are more than 20 common types, but two are the major killers. One is called atherosclerosis; the other is hypertension. Between them, they kill more than half the people who die of heart disease.

Atherosclerosis is hardening of the arteries. Almost every body has it to some degree. The arteries and veins run for miles through the body, carrying blood laden with nourishment to billions of cells, bringing back waste products to be filtered by the kidneys. In this work, the heart is assisted by a muscular squeeze of the arteries themselves.

For reasons no one understands, the linings of the arteries begin to thicken. In addition, deposits -- or plaques -- build against arterial walls. The inside diameter of these walls becomes smaller. The heart must beat harder to pump blood through the system. It is relatively the same as watching water fall out the broad end of a garden hose, then squeezing the hose. Pressure increases, although the amount of water remains the same.

From atherosclerosis, a thickened artery in the brain may break and the victim sustains a "stroke," which may rob him of speech or locomotion. If a clot breaks loose, and rides the arteries until it dams up a narrow section, a thrombosis results. If an artery in the heart itself is affected--and besides its pumping job, it requires personal nourishment--a myocardial infarction is sustained.

The other culprit is hypertension. This, technically, results from a closure, or constriction, of the small arteries, or arterioles. It puts much additional strain on the heart and there is always a question of how long the motor will run at top speed without cutting out. Of the 10,400,000 persons with hypertension, 6,450,000 are women.

Part of the cause may be emotional. No one can yet prove it. Some people--the sensitive perfectionists, for example--demand too much of themselves and forget how to relax. The most unrelaxed person is the one who is always telling everybody how relaxed he feels right now.

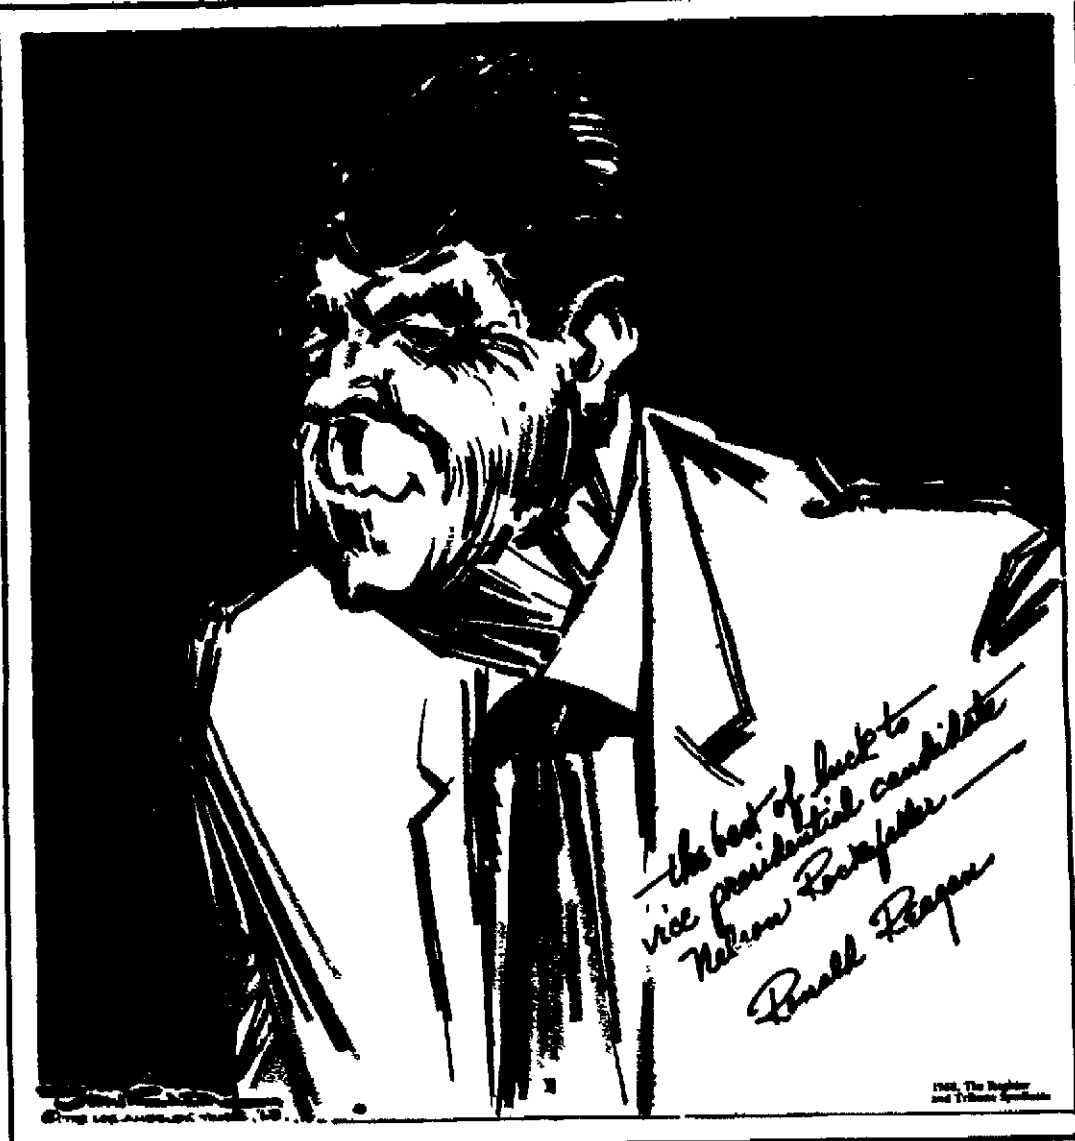

What's the answer? Your doctor. I'm not giving him a free endorsement when I write this. He and his confreres represent the profession most prone to heart disease. He's a do-as-I-say, not-as-I-do man.

However, the doctor is a two-stage missile. The examination and findings are one thing. His recommendation for corrective measures in your daily habits is part two. Answer his personal questions truthfully. Do not try to modify your smoking or drinking habits, or your tendency to explode when matters go wrong at home. Put it on the line.

From experience, he knows what behavior patterns are safe and which ones are dangerous. The nicest money I ever spent for a doctor was not when I was ill, but when he completed his work and said: "Nothing to report. Keep going the way you are--in moderation."

The heart transplants seem, to me, like a miracle too good to be true. And yet I hope that I never permit myself to reach the stage where I must have one.

Why do I write like this? I'll tell you. Some of my best friends are dead. . .

'One Fine Day'

(NOTE TO EDITORS: Gentlemen: I write this column from Switzerland, having listened to the latest broadcasts. I cannot hope to be on top of the engulfing events in South Vietnam. But this morning I received (explanation below) a letter which I should hope will be relevant a week from today. Or, for that matter, a year from today. My greetings -- W.F.B.)

"ONE FINE DAY" BERNE.

The crisis in South Vietnam, suddenly, isn't altogether an American crisis. There is, discreetly to be sure, an outpouring of sentiment from crusty Europeans who are normally rather snifty about America and America's foreign policy, but who suddenly feel a cold draft blow by, reminding them perhaps that the great effort at Khe Sanh is, and S a i g o n is, somehow, related to them, even as so many Americans knew, when Paris fell in 1940, that, somehow, the crisis was related to them.

Buckley

I pass along a letter from a young officer in Vietnam, addressed a few days ago to his family. It suggests a great many things which are not so readily explicated by analysis, or history, or polemical rhetoric. A view of life, sharpened by the rigors of the battlefield, from an American inescapably young . . .

"I guess," he writes his father and mother, "that you have wondered what I mean by 'One Fine Day.' It's time I explained a little. Let me begin.

"One Fine Day is a family like you, it's a family which makes mistakes and scores successes. A family which can change its mood from joy to sadness. Which can shatter into a thousand pieces and yet, when the call is sounded, can be One again.

"It is parents whose sole reason for being has been to give and give again to their children. How can one even begin to chronicle their labors? How can their children ever say, 'Thank you'?"

"It is: brothers so different in size, shape, feelings, likes and dislikes as to make one wonder, What are the ties that bind? But in that difference lies their strength. For none is the shadow of the others. They are themselves, they are individuals. Five brothers so different and yet so alike.

"One Fine Day is a day so beautiful and invigorating that you can understand what Edna St. Vincent Millay meant when she said, 'Oh World I cannot get thee close enough.' It's a day filled with the pure joyous excitement of being alive. The thrill of living lifts your body, and your feet rush to go somewhere. Anxious, impatient steps.

"It's a night when the music and booze fuse together and all else ceases to exist but you and this time and this place . . . how simple it all seems.

"One Fine Day is an eager, questioning, rebellious generation. It is mini-skirts sex drugs -- the whole drill. If the old shall prevail, then it must stand the test of doubting youth. We all search for the same things. How we get these, and what price we pay, are the important things.

"One Fine Day is a world which no longer bleeds. It's a world without guns, fear, fraud, hunger, or tears. If this type of world is One Fine Day, then it is a world with soul and God.

"One Fine Day is the 25th of December. It is chilled, snowy air, crowded stores and parking lots. It is Christmas Eve in a knotty pine cellar. It is giving brightly colored gifts and kisses and handshakes. It is church the next morning. It is a time to celebrate, to be happy and to be thankful.

"All this and so many things more are One Fine Day. A big part of One Fine Day will occur this year -- when I come home. There will be no brass bands or ticker tape parades. But in me there will be a tumult greater than I feel my body could contain. For all others the world will come to a grinding, screeching halt. The mills of industry will cease their roar/The winds their wandering/The animals their sympathy. Even the jet I ride in will have its whining engines come to silence. For that moment, that immeasurable fraction of infinity, will be mine and mine alone. It will be a part of my longed for dream of fantasies -- my One Fine Day. "Until then,"

Until then, we who are not at the front, can only stand and wait, hope and pray.

Budget Deficit, Moral Deficit

(c) N. Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON -- The economic arguments for and against a tax increase are ending in a miserable stalemate, but the moral argument for raising taxes has scarcely been debated.

There is no such thing as an equal war and the Vietnam war is more unequal than most. Over 800 Americans have been killed there in the last two recorded weeks. Another 10,500 men have been flown to the battlefield in the last few days, and General Westmoreland wants more.

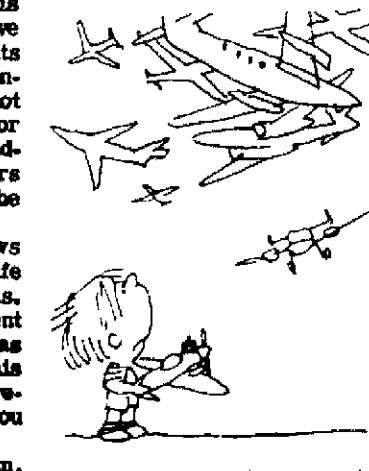

Meanwhile, adding to the inequality of sacrifice, some of the reserves have been called up while others of the same age and experience have not. The military draft takes the poor and leaves the educated rich, and in order to meet some of the urgencies of the conflict, some men who have survived one year's tour of duty in Vietnam are being sent back for another.

Yet the economists and politicians argue endlessly and fruitlessly about the tax rise as if the budget deficit were everything and the moral deficit nothing. The President negotiates with Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the ways and means committee as if Mills were the head of a foreign state. The argument between those who want to raise taxes and those who want to cut federal spending has gone on for months and it can go on indefinitely as long as it is left to the arguable mysteries of economics.

In this situation, the case for doing what is fair, what helps to share the burden, what is right deserves at least a hearing alongside what is best for the economy. The life of the nation goes on for most people as if there were no war. In fact, it has fired the boom and created another crop of industrial millionaires.

President Johnson has not asked for much in relation to the cost and startling inequality of the war. He is faced with a $33 billion deficit. His war tax, if passed, would reduce this by $13 billion. The Congress, which used to complain that the President exercised too much power in the legislative process, is now asking him to do its job of legislating the cuts. Both sides are playing politics with the problem, and the economists are hopelessly tangled in a dispute about whether inflation or deflation is the problem.

SCIENCE SKETCH

GENERAL AVIATION is on the increase, according to the Federal Aviation Administration. Non-airline pilots last year flew 104,706 airplanes a record 3.3 million miles in 21 million hours. They consumed 512 million gallons of gasoline and jet fuel.

In economic terms, of course, it is a fair enough debate. Industrial production, according to the latest figures out this week, is down a bit, and this is taken by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and his anti-tax faction as evidence that we may be headed for the skids. The arguments against taxes on travel are now drowning out the administration's case for improving the international balance of payments: Think of the terrible plight of the poor travelers in Europe this summer; consider the infringements on personal freedom and the inconveniences of the beleaguered tourists homeward bound and broke next August!

There is, of course, a point to all these arguments, though it is hard to make to a drafted "traveller" in Vietnam. The tax burden on the salaried middle class is high. The economy is a little uncertain. The proposed restrictions on foreign investment and foreign travel are awkward, but no nation ever fought such a vicious war in the midst of such sacrifice by some of its people and so little sacrifice by the rest.

The American people are not indifferent to this spectacular contrast between the men at the front and the people at home, though they know the facts more than they feel the hurt in the heart. This time the television cameras have shown them the unspeakable brutalities of war. And yet even the casualty lists have not moved the Congress to vote the funds needed to share the burden even a little bit.

The reason for this is that the larger philosophic questions of the war have somehow got lost in the technical debates over money. The dollar balance of payments question gets discussed. The budget deficit is debated ad infinitum. But there is also an unpaid human balance of payments and a human deficit in this war, and neither the council of economic advisers nor the ways and means committee has anything to say to us about them.

SYLVIA PORTER

Save on Taxes -- V

(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America) If you used your car for both pleasure and business last year but in some months used it only for pleasure travel, you will find your auto expense deductions governed by a new set of rules that show up on 1967's Form 2106. These new rules can give some of you bigger deductions than before and can shrink the deductions of others.

In the years before 1967, you figured the deductible portion of your car expenses by comparing the year's total business mileage to the year's total mileage. You added up your total auto expenses, multiplied this by total business mileage and divided by the total mileage for the year -- and you arrived at your deduction.

For your 1967 return, you completely disregard expenses, mileage and depreciation in months in which you had no business travel.

Suppose you bought a car on Jan. 1, 1967 for $4,000 and it has a four-year life. You leave on vacation January through March, during which time you drove 2,000 miles and had car expenses of $200. During the remaining nine months of 1967, you drove 8,000 miles on business, 2,000 miles on pleasure and incurred $2,600 in auto expenses.

For the 1967 return on which you are now working, you figure your deductions as follows:

Total expenses in business months $2,600
Percent of expense applicable business mo. (8,000 mi. / 10,000 mi.) 80 Pct.
Deductible exp. (80 Pct. of $2,600) $2,080
Basis for depreciation (80 Pct. of $4,000) $3,200
Tentative depreciation (25 Pct. of $3,200) $ 800
Actual depreciation (9/12 of $800; months of year car used for business) $ 600
Total deduction ($2,080 + $600) $2,680

You come out with a deduction of $2,680 for 1967 -- against a deduction that would have amounted to $2,534 under the rules in force in 1966.

Here are two other important points to note in deducting your automobile expenses.

+ If you used your car for business every month of the year, you will get the same result under the new rules as you did in the past.

+ Whether you used your car on business every month or not, you can choose an easier way of figuring your allowable automobile deduction -- If you are self-employed or an employee who uses your car part-time for business.

Instead of having to collect, add up, allocate to business and be prepared to prove your actual car expenses, you can deduct a flat 10 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of business travel and 7 cents a mile for business mileage over 15,000. Thus, if you drove 20,000 miles in 1967 on business and you can prove it, you are able to deduct $1,850 (10 cents on 15,000, plus 7 cents on 5,000 miles.)

You need only to be prepared to prove your business mileage. Under this method, you can also deduct parking fees and tolls incurred during business travel, in addition to the flat allowance.

The above report leads logically to a tax saving procedure you should adopt for 1968, if there are any months this year in which you will be traveling only for pleasure and if you don't intend to use the flat mileage method.

Since expenses incurred in a "pleasure" month are disregarded under the new rules for allocating actual expenses, your objective should be to pay any substantial car expenses in "business" months. Otherwise, the entire expenditure in the "all-pleasure" month will become non-deductible -- even though it was the direct result of previous business travel. For instance, if you wait until a "pleasure" month to have your motor overhauled and all the motor repairs done, you will get no tax benefit whatsoever for it under the new allocation rule. Tomorrow: Business travel.

U.S. Skiers Face Olympic 'Shutout'

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — America's luckless skiers hovered on the brink of an Olympic medal shutout Thursday after four U.S. girls finished far off the winning pace blazed by Canada's Nancy Greene in the giant slalom—last women's Alpine event of the 1968 Winter Games.

U.S. Olympic forces also drew blanks in four other championship finals—the men's 5,000-meter speed skating, men's and women's luge singles and men's biathlon relay race—but took a 6-4 consolation hockey victory over West Germany.

With three days of competition remaining on the skating rink and ski slopes in and around this bustling winter resort town, the U.S. still needs one more medal to surpass the total of six accumulated in the 1964 Games at Innsbruck, Austria.

And the high hopes of Alpine ski pilot Bob Beattie, before a bizarre string of injuries and misfortunes struck down his men's and women's teams, have faded to a single faint glimmer for a medal-winner finish in Saturday's men's special slalom.

Jean-Claude Killy, France's highballing ski marvel, goes for his third gold medal in the climactic Alpine test, with Americans Billy Kidd, Jimmy Huesga, Spider Sabich and Rich Chafee given no better than outside chances of cracking the top three.

With nine of the 34 Olympic gold medals still up for grabs, the best U.S. bet appears to be Tim Wood, 19-year-old national figure skating champion, who goes into Friday night's free-skating finals in second place behind Austria's Wolfgang Schwarz.

Wood, of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., climbed into contention Wednesday with a brilliant performance on the last three of his five compulsory figures.

Skaters have accounted for each of the half dozen medals captured by Americans thus far, with wondrous Peggy Fleming taking the lone gold award in women's figure skating.

Thursday, however, an American trio failed to make a top 20 as Norway's Frode Anton Maier won the men's 5,000-meter speed test in world record time of seven minutes, 22.4 seconds.

Manfred Schmid of Austria and Erika Lechner of Italy were declared the winners of the Ice Team Wins. Russians Upset!

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — The United States scored a second hockey victory of the Winter Olympics Thursday, 4-1 comeback against East Germany while Czechoslovakia upset defending champion Russia 5-4.

The Czech triumph, forged on a couple of first period power play goals, threw the struggle for the gold medal into a three-way fight between Russia, Czechoslovakia and Canada.

Each has a 3-1 record with one game left in the round robin tournament. Canada kept pace with a 3-0 shutout of Sweden. It was Russia's first defeat.

Four County Cage Teams In League Tilts Tonight

League standings are on the line tonight for four of the five county basketball squads as the cage season starts to close. In Section II, the Warren Dragons will travel to Cranberry, putting their third place ranking against the Berries. The Upper Allegheny Valley League schedule finds Eisenhower pitted against Spartansburg on the Knight hardwood, and Tidoute hosting cross-county foe Youngsville. The Sheffield Wolverines will roll out the carpet for non-league Bradford Central Christian.

Protecting Third
Warren will be facing a "must win" contest when they meet the Berries. The Dragons now stand third with a 6-5 slate in Section II play, but they remain only one place ahead of Cranberry, who is tied with Oil City at 4-7.

In their first meeting the Dragons dumped the Berries, 65-51, but it was early in the season and the Dragons held the homecourt advantage. Paul Mills was the star for the Cranberry five, netting 22 points against the Dragons.

The Blue and White lineup will feature one change: Dave Cobb will return to the tipoff squad. The O'Neil brothers, Dan and Ed, Randy Jones, and Dan Krumm make up the rest of the Dragon five.

He Seeks Repeat
Eisenhower will go against Spartansburg with Bob Burlingame leading the pack. Burlingame carries a 30.6 average for the Knights' 9-0 slate. In men's and women's luge singles on the basis of their first three runs after unfavorable weather caused cancellation of the fourth and final heats in the small sled races.

Russia took its third gold medal with a decisive triumph over Norway and Sweden in the 4x7.5-kilometer biathlon relay, which combines cross-country ski racing with rifle marksmanship.

Miss Green zipped to a decisive 2.64 seconds victory over France's Annie Famose in the ladies' giant slalom for her second, and Canada's second medal in the Games.

Nancy tore down the 1,610-meter, 68-gate giant slalom course in one minute, 51.97 seconds, with Miss Famose second in 1:54.61.

The American girls, whose surprisingly strong runs in the special slalom Tuesday were erased by disqualifications and spills, again finished out of the running.

Judy Nagel, the 16-year-old schoolgirl from Enonclaw, Wash., who led in the slalom before tumbling on her second run, was 12th with a time of 1:57.39. Suzie Chaffee of Rurland, Vt., came in 17th in 1:58.38; Kiki Cutter of Bend, Ore., 21st in 1:59.52 and Wendy Allen of San Pedro, Calif., 22nd in 2:00.3.

EOC Quintet Plays Finale Here Tonite

The Warren-Edinboro Campus basketball team plans its final game of the 1967-68 season tonight, hosting the Pitt Campus of Titusville squad at 8 p.m. in the Warren Area High School Gym.

There will be no admission charge for the contest and area cage fans are invited to attend to see Warren County's only college quintet in action.

The game will ring down the curtain on the local careers of second-year students Paul Johnston, Fred Huffman, Jim Anundson, Jim Dahler and Mike Adamsky. Leo Schlanger, the team's top rebounder, will also be moving on to the main campus this fall, but is out of town and will not play tonight.

For Johnston, the former WAHS star, it marks the end of a brilliant career on the Warren Campus. He holds all EOC scoring records, including most total points in two seasons (629); most points in one season (348); most points in one game (48); and highest shooting percentage in one season (43 per cent), the latter three marks all set last season. He also holds several rebounding records.

This season he has scored 281 points in ten games, a 28.1 average, also an EOC standard, and his highest single game mark is 45 points.

Johnston's heir-apparent to the team leadership in scoring is first-year student Dave Bucka, who has totaled 212 points in eight games this season, a 26.5 average and has hit over 30 on several occasions.

Johnston, Bucka, Huffman, Anundson and first-year man Ken McNeil will make up the starting five for Head Coach Andy Randas tonight.

7 Russians Out of NY Track Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven Russian athletes pulled out of the strife-torn and boycott-threatened New York Athletic Club track meet Thursday night, claiming they "were afraid they may be hurt on a picket line."

Negro athletes have announced a planned boycott of the meet, protesting alleged discriminatory membership policies by the club.

Several colleges and clubs, along with a group of Roman Catholics, have said they will support the boycott of the meet, to be held in the new Madison Square Garden on Friday night.

About a dozen Negro athletes were scheduled to compete, but there was no assurance they will cross picket lines.

Col. Don Hull, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union, announced the Russian decision and quoted an unidentified Russian official as saying: "We are guests in your country. We don't want to cause any trouble and we're afraid of being hurt on a picket line."

H. Rap. Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, also announced that his organization supports the boycott plan. He added: "Personally, if you don't want 'em to run, you should blow Madison Square Garden up."

Admit South Africa To Mexico Olympics

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — South Africa, barred from the 1964 Olympics for its racial policies, was readmitted into the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City by a vote of an "absolute majority" of members of the International Olympic Committee.

The announcement here Thursday night immediately raised the possibility that several other African nations, and possibly the Soviet Union, might boycott the summer Games starting Oct. 12.

Russian sports officials at the Winter Olympics here had indicated earlier in the week that if South Africa competes in the Mexico City Games the Soviet Union won't.

Soviet officials, however, had no immediate reaction Thursday to the announcement by the IOC, ending the suspension which had kept South Africa out of the 1964 Summer and Winter Games and the current Winter Games in Grenoble.

Col. John Westerhoff, secretary of the IOC, said that a favorable postal vote had been made by the IOC on a resolution readmitting South Africa to Olympic competition. He did not disclose the exact vote but said it was an "absolute majority."

Westerhoff said the vote had been received on the basis of several assurances by the South African government. The assurances included an integrated team, traveling and living together, wearing the same uniform and marching under the same flag.

Trials also would be integrated and selection of the teams would be made by an equal number of white and non-white officials.

The resolution on which the IOC members voted favorably allowed South Africa into the Mexico City Games but said the whole question of racial discrimination in sport would be reconsidered by the IOC at the end of 1970.

Boynton 1st At Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Frank Boynton, off the tour for the past four years, fired a five-under-par 66 Thursday to take the first-round lead in the $100,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

Boynton, a 31-year-old club pro from Cleveland, collected seven birdies and a pair of bogies over the damp Phoenix Country Club course, a par 71 layout, playing much longer than its official 6,765 yards.

Bunched in second place at four-under-par 67 were Tommy Shaw, Marty Fleckman, Jack Montgomery and George Knudson.

Jack Nicklaus, rated one of the tournament favorites, stumbled to a four-over-par 75. Defending champion Julius Boros shot a 70 and was grouped with a host of players at one under par.

AFL-CIO Charges Workers At Mercy of "Bureaucrats"

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Millions of public workers ranging from garbage men to school teachers are at the mercy of "bungling bureaucrats" and "antilabor" politicians because of punitive state labor laws, union leaders charged Thursday.

"In cities and states across the nation, tensions between public officials and public employees are mounting at an alarming rate," said AFL-CIO leaders meeting here.

They cited as examples New York City's garbage men's dispute, another garbage collectors' strike in Memphis, Tenn.,

a recent nine-day strike of teachers in the Washington, D.C. suburb of Montgomery County, Md., and a threatened Florida Teachers' strike.

AFL-CIO Vice President Paul Hall described as "absolutely appalling" the New York garbage negotiations involving Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mayor John V. Lindsay. Rockefeller and Lindsay are Republicans.

But "the Republicans do not have a claim to all the stupidity," Hall said. "This is equally true of many cities and many states" run by both Democratic and GOP political administrations, he added.

"There is not a single state in the whole 50 where public employees have the right to strike," said Robert D. Bollard, legislative director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

"Every time we strike, we break the law," said Bollard whose union represents some 350,000 health, sanitation, highway, school, clerical and other public employees of states, cities and counties across the nation.

Bollard urged a drive by organized labor to win laws in all states to give public workers the right to organize, bargain and strike in order to "assure equity for millions of public employees."

Latest U.S. Labor Department figures list a total of more than nine million state and local government employees in the 50 states.

"These laws impose massive restrictions on the rights of employees and their unions and provide for severe penalties in the case of union violations," Bollard said in a resolution adopted by the AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Department.

Paratroopers Have Seen Duty in Vietnam Before

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly half the paratroopers in an Army brigade being hurried to South Vietnam have seen war duty there before, Pentagon sources said Thursday.

Perhaps 1,000 of these Army men have been back in the United States less than a year, these sources said.

A significant percentage of a Marine unit also being speeded to Vietnam are heading for second tours of war duty, it was learned. All these Marines have been away from Vietnam at least a year, sources said.

The Pentagon has refused so far to identify the units, or even the services involved in the recently announced movement of 10,500 ground combat troops to Vietnam at the request of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander.

Westmoreland asked for the speeded-up deployment to bolster his forces in the face of a threatened major North Vietnamese assault on the Khe Sanh bastion and the possibility of a renewed Viet Cong city offensive.

However, it is now common knowledge that the major units in this new deployment are a brigade of the 82nd Air Borne Division, Ft. Bragg, N.C., and the 27th Marine Regiment from Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The Army brigade numbers some 3,800 men. The Marine regiment has a strength of about 5,000.

Units formed largely of military professionals, such as the paratroopers and the Marines, are more likely to be heavy with Vietnam veterans than are regular Army divisions composed mostly of two-year draftees.

The high proportion of men bound for second war tours with the Army brigade and Marine regiment is another indication of the squeeze in seasoned military manpower confronting the Pentagon.

This squeeze has made it difficult to hold to the one-year tour of war duty and the policy, until now, of assuring a man at least 24 months away from Vietnam before he is sent back.

The manpower drain to Vietnam has forced top administration officials to consider calling to active duty National Guard and Reserve units.

Shafer Calls For GOP Declaration Of Priorities

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, winding up a speaking tour that took him to the West Coast, called on Republicans Thursday night to enunciate a "clear and reasonable declaration of national priorities."

"The Republican Party," Shafer said, "has a singular opportunity to set national priorities when we write the 1968 platform."

Shafer is backed by the national Republican Governors organization for the co-chairmanship of the platform committee at the national convention.

His speaking tour of Lincoln Day dinners across the country took him into the home state of Gov. Ronald Reagan. He told newsmen in Chico, Cal., Wednesday that he couldn't see Reagan as the GOP nominee at the present time, but added:

"I don't say it's impossible."

To hold the 64-member Pennsylvania delegation together in the early stages of the convention, Shafer's name will be presented to the convention as a "favorite son." He has the backing in that endeavor of the Pennsylvania party leadership.

In his speech Thursday night to the Lincoln Day dinner of the Onondaga County Republican Citizens' Committee, Shafer said:

"It has been the lack of priorities in our national goals that has led the people to a general uneasiness and restlessness about where the present course of this country is taking us."

"It is time we provide a leadership that will enumerate our problems clearly, set the priority of finding solutions, and then ask the American people to roll up their sleeves and go to work."

After his Thursday night appearance in Syracuse, Shafer planned to fly back to the executive residence and be in his office at the Capitol in Harrisburg Friday.

Mass Demonstration Planned at Hospital In New Castle

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP) — A mass demonstration is planned Saturday at St. Francis Hospital in support of an X-ray technicians' strike, a strike leader said Wednesday.

Esther Macri, who is leading a drive to organize the technicians, said the Building Trades Council of Lawrence County and the AFL-CIO of Lawrence County said they would send demonstrators to the hospital.

She estimated 200 persons will demonstrate, but said the demonstration would take the form of a silent vigil so that hospital patients will not be disturbed.

The hospital's four X-ray technicians struck Jan. 2 to back demands that the hospital recognize Local 25 of the American Federation of Technical Engineers as their bargaining representative.

"Hell will freeze over before we give up," said Mrs. Macri who is president of the local.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles O. Rice, Pittsburgh's "labor priest," said he would attend the demonstration and deliver an address.

Msgr. Rice has supported the strikers in his weekly column in the Pittsburgh Catholic, official publication of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Pittsburgh, even though St. Francis is run by the Catholic Church.

Sub-Zero Night; Large Crowd Attends Style Show

Monday night the Ave Maria Society of St. Clara and St. Anthony Churches, Clarendon and Sheffield, sponsored a springtime style show and card party, and, even midst the sub-zero howlings of the winter winds, it was a success. The St. Paul Center at Saybrook, where the affair was held, was filled with women, who, tired of the snow and cold, were eager to see the fashions for spring and summer from Betty Lee. The theme for the evening was "Hearts and Flowers."

Models were Mrs. Dennis Flick, Miss Linda Garner, Mrs. George Hesch, Mrs. Walter Homan, Mrs. Thad Lawson, Miss Messie Lawson, Mrs. James Lawson, Mrs. Frank Lucia, Mrs. Frantz Reiff, Miss Rosemary Reiff, Mrs. Raymond Ristau, Miss Sylvia Juliano, Mrs. Anne Hyatt was the narrator.

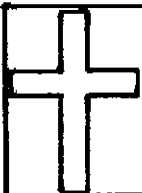

During the course of the evening's benefit for the two churches, the patrons were further pleased and delighted by the many lovely awards given through the courtesy of the following businesses: Baynes Hardware, Sheffield Pharmacy, Cuthbertson's Variety Store, Helen's Dress Shop, Community Market.

Also, Betty Lee, Reliable Furniture, Gorton's Flower and Gift

Luncheon Served Lander WSCS Members And Guests

The Lander WSCS meeting was held in the Parish House with 19 members, 4 visitors and 7 children present for the luncheon served by Mrs. Gid VanOrd and Mrs. Kenneth Lindell. Mrs. Donald Ludwick presided at the business meeting and read a poem and prayer from the Woman's division meeting held in Colorado in January.

A letter was read from the district president about the changes in the WSCS. The name will remain Women's Society of Christian Service, the church year will run from September 1 to August 31 instead of June 1 to May 31. Officers will be: President, vice president, secretary, treasurer, and the following chairmen of program areas:

Christian social relations; missionary education; spiritual growth; program material (if 20 or more members); local church responsibility; and chairman of nominations. It is expected additional committees will be appointed.

Elections should be held before June 1, so as to allow outgoing and incoming officers to train and plan together during the summer months.

It was voted to order three prayer calendars and an annual report from the board of missions. It was also announced that World Day of Prayer services will be held on March 1 (Friday). The place to be announced.

The president gave a resume of activities for the year: July- a group went to the Methodist Missionary Home in Chautauque; June-sponsored a family night supper; October-observed the "Call to Prayer and Self Denial," used film strip "People and Possibilities," helped with church wide school of missions, sent 12 lbs. of fabric to the women in Vietnam.

Also, aided in a benefit supper for the Babcock family, sponsored "Open House" at the parsonage. Doubled the cash donation for supply giving, paid $30.00 each month toward current expenses of the church, pledged $150.00 to missionary work and gave $35 for supply askings.

Mrs. David Marsh gave devotions and Mrs. Lydia Hand-nold of Youngsville gave a Tupperware demonstration. The society will receive 15 percent from the sales of the day. The next meeting will be held on March 6 at the parish house and will be the annual Birthday Party.

Contrary to the old superstition that milk and fish are not a good combination, these two foods may be combined healthfully in a meal.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After reading your advice to "Betrayed and Bitter," the woman with the unfaithful husband, I wonder if the good you do is equal to the harm. I doubt it. Why do you persist in the notion that the wife of a cheating husband should take the jerk back, soothe his tired brow, forgive and forget and never bring up the subject again?

I wish I had a dollar for every lousy, miserable cheating rat who read that advice and chortled with glee. My own lousy, miserable, cheating rat shoved your column into my face and said, "Here, read what a MATURE woman has to say on the subject."

Then you come out with, "You owe it to your children." Why must it always be the mother who "owes it to her children"? Doesn't a father owe his children anything? Why don't you write a column telling those back alley Romeos to grow up and put their family obligations ahead of carnal desire? Why don't you remind them of the vow, "In sickness and in health, for better or for worse, till death do us part." Or have you rewritten it to read, "In sickness and in health, for better or for worse, until a sexy-looking broad comes along?"

For 20 years I put my husband's happiness and comfort first. I gave him four wonderful children, and I raised them without much help from HIM. I made our home a meeting place for his family and friends. I was nurse, teacher, housekeeper, chauffeur, accountant, cook and official hostess. And how did he repay me? By taking up with every skirt that crossed his path—office girls, shop girls, stewardesses, waitresses—just name it and he has had it.

"Forgive and forget," you say. The phrase is so sanctimonious and pious. And it has a nice Christian ring to it. But if you are going to sit atop Mt. Olympus and hand out advice, Ann Landers, you'd better come down occasionally and mingle with the mortals. The women who inhabit this earth are flesh and blood humans, not plaster saints. —ALSO BETRAYED AND BITTER

DEAR ALSO: My desk is piled high with letters from bitter and betrayed wives from every state in the union. They call me a female Judas, a traitor to my sex, and other names which are unprintable.

But I have received some beautiful letters, too—not many, but a few, from wives who are NOT bitter. These are the women whose existence you doubt—the "plaster saints." Here is one of the best:

Dear Ann: Your advice to the wife of the cheating husband was excellent. I was one such a fool, but I learned the futility of anger and bitterness, and, I might add, the lesson was a costly one. May I say a few words to the unforgiving wives of the world?

Dear Stubborn Fools: Are you content now that you have decided to throw the bum out and go it alone? Are you enjoying the role of "the woman wronged"?

March on with your head held high. Meet and commiserate with all the divorcees in your crowd. Relish the battles and compare wounds. When you begin to date other men you will be surprised at the number who were thrown out because of a meaningless affair. Then go home and struggle with the multitudinous problems caused by your insufferable pride.

To those who are still undecided, I say: Erase that perfect image of yourself. It doesn't exist. Accept the fact that no marriage is 100 per cent perfect. Enjoy and appreciate the 50 or 60 or 70 per cent you do have. Forget the past because the future is more important. And forgive him because you love him. —BEEN THERE

Women Hear Blue Jay Librarian

Miss Mary Elizabeth Allen, librarian at the Blue Jay Job Corps, was the speaker for the Literature Department program at the Woman's Club, Monday afternoon. Miss Allen is an employee at the Warren Public Library and goes to the Blue Jay Camp each Tuesday. It is her job to help the boys select books of interest and to get them interested in using a library.

The Blue Jay Camp library is aided with funds from the Federal Government and has 750 books: 500 from the Warren Library and 250 belonging to the Job Corps. These books are unique and geared to the boy's standard education. The Job Corps also furnished magazines and newspapers. This is the only library of its kind sponsored by another library. All other Job Corps libraries are just made up of books furnished by the government and have no trained attendants or volunteers.

The 120 boys enrolled at Blue Jay are of a volunteer membership group with entrance exams, and strictly elementary education. They have five full time teachers, one part time, one student, and several volunteers.

The next step from camps such as Blue Jay is to an urban camp to learn a trade. So far, Blue Jay has had one go on to college.

2 ♦ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♠
In his haste to obtain a quick discard, South, the declarer at four hearts, lost sight of his primary objective which was to win 10 tricks.

West opened the four of spades. South won the trick with the ace and, observing that his opponents had failed to cash their club trick, he resolved not to give them a second chance. The dummy was entered with the king of hearts in order to play North's king and queen of spades on which declarer discarded his lone club and a diamond.

A diamond was led toward the closed hand, and the king was put up, losing to West's ace. The latter put his queen of hearts to good use by removing one of North's remaining two trumps. South was thereby restricted to only one diamond ruff. In the end he was obliged to concede two more diamond tricks as well as the jack of trumps, and the contract went on the rocks.

In failing to count his winners, declarer had permitted his attention to be drawn to one suit instead of considering the over-all picture. Barring a favorable trump break, South can reasonably expect to win only five heart tricks as well as three spades. As a precautionary measure, he should arrange to ruff two diamonds in dummy.

His proper play at trick two is a low diamond from his hand. It should not matter to him if the opposition cashes their club trick. There are other losers that can be discarded just as profitably on the dummy's high spades.

By leading the diamond before playing a round of trumps, South is assured of the opportunity to obtain two diamond ruffs and thereby bring his trick total up to 10.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1948.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Gain extra time for special interests by consolidation, cutting red tape, eliminating non-essentials from your schedule. But be careful not to omit items the importance of which you may be as yet unaware.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — A day for watching-and-waiting, yet it calls for action sufficient enough to keep you from getting bogged down with doubts or indecisiveness. Routine matters, rather than new ventures favored.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Be direct, manage your affairs astutely, and don't let anyone turn you from a well-planned course. DO recognize when you are in error, however, and take immediate steps to rectify.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — You may not be able to complete everything you'd like, but if you do your best and handle essentials first, your day will be satisfying. Much help is available to you now.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Better-than-average prospects, but you will have to grasp the good opportunities firmly, quickly reject propositions unlikely to be productive. Especially favored: Domestic and family interests.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Do not let past failures deter you from doing your best — and achieving — NOW. King-sized profits in the offing.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Tread watchfully — to avoid needless errors and rubbing others the wrong way. Tact and understanding will do most to keep matters going smoothly. Gains possible.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22) — There will be many avenues to accomplishment open to you now. With diligence and good judgment, you should be able to rack up sizeable results, and build an even firmer foundation for the future.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — This day will liken itself to a game of checkers. First moves will count heavily, and it will be important to figure out the strategy of your opponents. Be precise but not "fussy."

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Harmony and self-control needed now. Don't antagonize those in a position to help you — or anyone else, for that matter. Aim to improve methods, knowledge.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Your affairs and the work expected of you should run smoothly if you aim for this with foresight and consistency. Unusual and original ideas should go over well.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — Accuracy and optimism MUST be stressed now. In all matters, clear vision will be needed if you are to accomplish in spite of obstacles. Guessing won't help; neither will worry. Just do your best — and without haste or anxiety.

YOU BORN TODAY are straightforward, sturdy, more than willing to carry your share of the load and capable of carrying it longer than many others. Your step-by-step climb to success is so unpretentious that you often reach the top before many notice. Yet you remain your usual outgoing, jovial self, a gay and charming companion. Many playwrights, poets, architects and literary scholars have been Aquarians. Birthdate of: Ernst Haeckel, biologist.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

DRINKING TOO MUCH

Americans spend more money on alcohol and tobacco than on medical care. In the circumstances, they should know more about their leading vice-drinking. Alcohol is a tricky drug and many individuals have learned that there is a fine line between being "high" and "plastered." Tolerance varies and, in addition, the end result depends upon the rate of absorption. It is poor policy to imbibe on an empty stomach because absorption occurs in a matter of minutes.

Foods—particularly fats and oils—delay the process. This explains why a thoughtful hostess includes everything from popcorn to caviar at a cocktail party. Those who expect to spend the evening celebrating often take a quarter of a glass of cream before leaving home. Two teaspoonfuls of olive oil every 15 minutes until six teaspoonfuls have been consumed will be sufficient; more may make you sick. Liquids in the stomach also delay absorption. A glass of milk, water, or even beer is helpful along this line. This should not be construed as a golden light for overindulgence, but is mentioned only as a means of minimizing the effects of alcohol.

Party goes will profit by hiring taxis instead of driving their own cars. Considering the price of liquor, taxis offer cheap insurance against accidents.

Alcohol undergoes chemical changes after being absorbed and the liver has the job of detoxification. But the organ can handle only so much at one time and when cocktails go down the hatch too quickly and too often, hours elapse before the body rids itself of the substance. This is the major cause of hangovers.

Contributing factors include staying up too late, smoking, and not eating. The ensuing snorelike wobbles serve one good purpose: The punishment is a good form of repentance. When a person imbibes too freely and becomes ill, he can take an emetic consisting of one heaping teaspoonful of salt or dry mustard to a glass of warm water.

TOMORROW: Childproof Bottle Tops.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

EXCESS GUM SHOWING

A.E. writes: Do you know why some people have small teeth and gums showing?

REPLY

This may be a family characteristic. Now and then it is an optical illusion, because the upper lip is short and exposes more of the gums. Mouth breathers, especially those who have more than their share of nasal trouble, also may expose more of the gums.

Lions Clubs Play Friday

Tidioute Lions are busy practicing to further perfect their game with full intentions of winning another victory from the Tionesta Lions on Friday, Feb. 17 at 8 p.m. in the West Forest High. Tuesday night they had a two-hour practice session.

With a 15-point victory on Saturday, Feb. 3 over Tionesta, on the home court, which ended 73 to 58, perhaps they can feel a little cocky. However the best guarantee of another win is for our local fans to go to Tionesta with a large rooting section to spur them on.

Tidioute Boro Council Reports Young Speeders

Following complaints about young speeders, aired at the Borough Council meeting Mon. Feb. 12, members agreed to turn in license numbers of offenders to borough authorities. It also stated that Mrs. Juanita Wolford, as a member of the borough police force, is authorized to report speeders.

The complaints were of speeding on Kinneer, Jefferson, Third and lower Main sts. Also reported was hazardous driving on Kinneer st. because of parking on both sides of the road.

Sec. William Karns was authorized to order two (five-minute) signs to be placed in front of the post office where two parking meters were authorized to be removed last month. The street and roads committee reported that no parking signs had been erected on Johnson st., where there is danger of falling ice from the IOOF building.

Councilman Barr, who is also driver-training instructor for the school, reported that the stop sign placed at the corner of Walnut and Jefferson sts., some months ago, has been a difficult stop in icy weather. However he said that it had been removed Monday, Feb. 12. On motion by council, the removal was voted to be permanent. Barr also volunteered to serve on the local planning commission and to attempt to find a second member needed to represent Tidioute, approval to take place at the March meeting.

No immediate action was taken on Mayor Lodge's recommendation last month for a pay raise for the police chief, with the matter to remain status quo for the present.

Following discussion of the School Activities

For the want of a rope, the Tidioute school bell hasn't rung for several years, and students were never sure just how long they could linger on the way and still not be late.

Now all that is changed, a new rope has been attached to the bell. Each morning it is ringing at 8:15 and again at 8:25 to warn the stragglers. The Freshmen boys have taken over the bell ringing for the present. The townspeople like to hear the old familiar clang, which sort of seems to say, "all's well with the world," even when it isn't.

The Music Appreciation Club sponsored a Victory dance after the East Forest game last Friday night. Proceeds of the dance were used for an assembly presented by the Warren High School Orchestra.

The Music Boosters would like to thank everyone who attended the Valentine dance Sat. Feb. 10, and those who helped in making it such a big success. Special thanks go to Harriet Amos and Laurie Alberth for making the tickets; to Mrs. Weir and her art classes; Mr. Stecker and his shop classes and Mr. Myers for helping with the decorations and posters.

Proceeds from tickets and a cake walk won by Mr. and Mrs. George Drukenbrod, totaled $67.00 which will be used for new band uniforms.

The Freshmen are planning a dance for Friday, March 1. The tenth grade will be busy selling candy for the next few weeks. Cindy Konkle and Harriet Amos, members of the Tidioute Band are attending District Band in Oil City, Feb. 14, 15 and 16.

Senior class members are now taking orders for the yearbooks. A deposit is necessary with your order.

The Juniors are sponsoring a dance this Friday, Feb. 16 following the game with Youngsville.
